Hi all,

I pulled this info as our example so we can see the discrepancy between the order 'Detail' screen and the rates Bob gets from FedEx (Par's discount versus standard rate). Attaching invoices so we can see what was actually billed.

Note – the items on SO# 612944 defaulted to NDA shipping, so we did not charge the customer freight.

Rates from the order 'Detail' screen:

612924	70.61
612932	18.17
612935	20.38

Rates from Bob:

612924	Standard Rate – $ 462.19	Our Discount Rate - $ 100.85
612932	$ 102.26	$ 20.46
612935	$ 110.67	$ 22.13
~~612944~~	~~$ 167.64~~	~~$ 33.53~~

Freight Charge on Invoice

612924	$ 70.61
612932	$ 18.17
612935	$ 20.38

Conclusion:
The order 'Detail' screen freight charges were accurate in this situation. The customer was charged for freight the amount that we quoted them using the 'Detail' screen. So… That's a good thing! Any thoughts/comments?

Hello.

Any updates on prices in JDE vs. freight charges appearing on customer invoices?

Thank you.

Importance: High

Melanie,
This doesn't sound accurate to me because we have been providing the customers the prices from the detail screen for years for small packages.
We have never received a complaint regarding a discrepancy in shipping price.

Melanie,
Please keep track of a few overnights with FPB and the price in the system. After shipped we should check what price they were charged.

Hi Tim/Nirosha,

I had a brief discussion with Bob over the phone…

He was telling me that the freight charges we see in the 'Detail' screen of JDE are actually Par's discounted rates from FedEx and are not the rates that we actually charge to the customer for freight. Do either of you two know if that is true? If so, that may be why we see a discrepancy between freight charges provided by NY versus those provided by HSV.

Thoughts?

Thank you very much!
